

BLACK WIDOW PRESS

An Alchemist With One Eye on Fire

By Clayton Eshleman

Black Widow Press is pleased to present National Book Award winning poet Clayton Eshleman's fourteenth collection of poems and prose, An Alchemist With One Eye on Fire. Eshleman's poetry, essays, and translations have been published in more than 500 literary magazines and periodicals throughout the world. He continues, as Adrienne Rich has said, "to go more deeply into his art, its processes and demands, than any modern poet since Robert Duncan or Muriel Rukeyser."

"An Eshleman poem is unmistakable from first glance. Image jams against image, not impressionistically but in service to a passionately argued line of reason, a line in which an idea, before completion, turns into another idea, and then another..."—Eliot Weinberger
